

1.Intention: An intention is idea that you plan/intended to carry out. If you mean something, it's an intention. Your goal, purpose, or aim is your intention. It's something you mean to do, whether you pull it off or not.

2.Competence: This a combination of knowledge, skills, behaviours, and attitudes that help someone to perform a task successfully/efficiently. Example, the ability to make business decisions would be competency, problem solving, strategic planning, etc.

3.Ethnocentric: Ethnocentrism is the tendency to view one's own culture as superior to others and to judge other cultures based on one's own cultural norms and values.

Ethnocentric individuals often believe that their way of life, beliefs, and practices are the "right" or "normal" ones, while other cultures are seen as inferior or strange. This perspective can lead to prejudice, discrimination, and misunderstandings

4.Interpersonal: Interpersonal skills are soft skills that involve the ability to build and maintain positive relationships with others. They are also known as "people skills" and are used in many social situations, including at work, school, and in personal life. Example: Communication, Empathy, Conflict resolution, Problem solving, Adaptability Leadership.

5.Intrapersonal: Intrapersonal skills are a type of soft skill that involves self-awareness. This includes an awareness of your goals, emotions and thoughts. Intrapersonal skills focus solely on you and recognizing your innermost beliefs.

6.Stereotype: Stereotyping is the act of making assumptions or generalizations about individuals or groups based on limited information, often influenced by cultural, racial, ethnic, or other characteristics.

Stereotyping can lead to unfair treatment, discrimination, and misunderstandings. It can also perpetuate biases and reinforce prejudices. Challenging stereotypes involves recognizing that individuals within a group can vary greatly and should not be judged solely based on group characteristics.

7.Aggressive: Aggressive communication is a style where someone tries to control others' behaviour and prioritize their own needs. It can involve, yelling or threatening others, putting down others.

8.Submissive: Those who give in, keep quiet, and systematically put others first because they believe that they are not important, are submissive people.

Submissive behaviour is when someone yields to or obeys another person or animal, or shows a willingness to do so. Example: Over-apologizing, Agreeing with others, Backing down.

9.Netiequitte: Netiquette is a set of guidelines for polite and considerate behaviour when communicating online. Network etiquette-- that is, the etiquette of cyberspace

10.Hard skills: Hard skills are technical abilities and knowledge that you gain through training, practice and education. They are also known as 'technical skills', 'academic skills' and 'competency skills'. Hard skills are definable and measurable.

11.Soft skills: Soft skills are non-technical skills that describe how you interact with others and work. They are personality traits and character attributes that help you succeed in the workplace and interact effectively with others.

12.Writing style: Writing style is the manner in which a writer addresses the reader. It involves qualities of writing such as vocabulary and figures of speech, phrasing, rhythm, sentence structure, and paragraph length. Developing an appropriate business writing style will reflect well on you and increase your success in any career.

13.Work place:

14.Creativity: Creativity is a soft skill that involves the ability to think of new ideas, solutions, or ways to express ideas in a unique way. It's a combination of imagination, critical thinking, and problem-solving techniques. Example: Strategies, researching, brainstorming, evaluating process.

Self-Management: Self-management is a soft skill that involves the ability to manage your own time, work, and behaviour in the workplace. It's a key skill for success in a career.

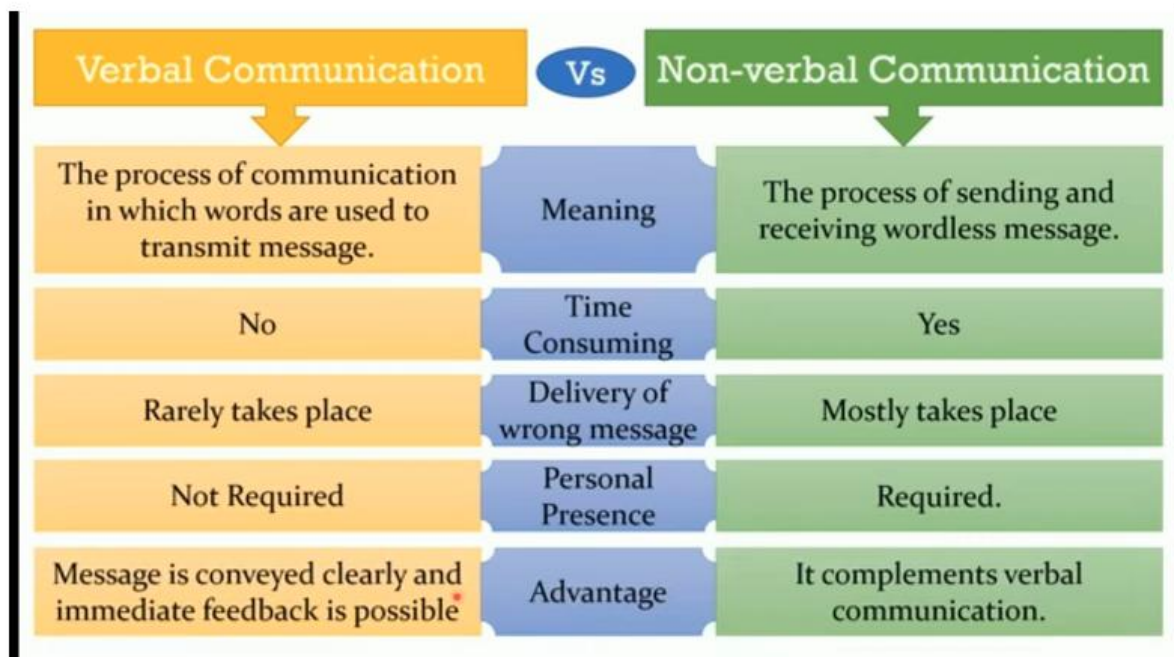

Example: Stress management, Time management, Problem solving, Adaptability, Accountability, Organizational skills.

Self-discipline: Self-discipline enables consistent effort, goal-setting, and the ability to overcome challenges. It helps individuals stay focused, make better decisions, and build the habits necessary for long-term achievement.

Self-criticism: Self-criticism is the tendency to evaluate yourself in a negative or harsh way, which can lead to feelings of guilt, failure, or worthlessness. It can manifest in several ways, including dwelling on past mistakes, and engaging in negative self-talk. Self-criticism can be harmful, but it can also be positive if it's used to: Acknowledge mistakes and failures, learn from mistakes and failures, cultivate humility, and overcome or change unwanted habits or weaknesses.

Personality development: Soft skills comprise pleasant and appealing personality traits as self-confidence, positive attitude, emotional intelligence, social grace, flexibility, friendliness and effective communication skills.

Types of personality:

Types of communication:Non-verbal communication:

1.Kinetics: Eye contact, Facial expression, Gestures, Posture.

2. Vocalics- paralanguage (like/method of communication): VOICE, INTONATION- STRESSWORDS, PITCH- HIGH LOW PAUSE EMPHASIZE THE MESSAGE, VOLUME, WORDSTRESS, SILENCE- ABSENCE OF SOUND.

3.CHRONOMEICS: USE OF TIME EARLY/LATE.

4.ARTIFACTS: OBJECT.... PHYSICAL ITEMS THAT ACTS AS COMMUNICATION, STATUS...INTERIOR...ARCHITECTURE....KIND OF PERSON.

5.Tones: ● Motivating ● Informative ● soft tone ● Humorous ● Respectful.

Define Culture. Indian follows which culture?ANS:

1.The ability to understand and respect the cultural identities of others. This includes being open-minded to differences, understanding cultural factors that influence people's thoughts and behaviours, and adapting your communication and behaviour to suit different cultural contexts.

2.79.8% of the population of India practice Hinduism. Islam (14.2%), Christianity (2.3%), Sikhism (1.7%), Buddhism (0.7%) and Jainism (0.4%) are the other major religions followed by the people of India.

6 Thinking Hats:

Hat	Role	Focus
	Logic	The facts
	Optimism	The value and the benefits
	Devil's advocate	The difficulties and dangers
	Emotion	Feelings and intuitions
	Creativity	Possibilities and new ideas
	Management	Ensuring the rules of the hats are observed

White Hat

Data, facts, information
known or needed

Red Hat

Feelings, hunches, instinct and intuition

Black Hat

Difficulties, potential problems,
why something may not work

Yellow Hat

Values and benefits, why something may work

Blue Hat

Manage process, next steps, action plans

Green Hat

Creativity, solutions, alternatives, new ideas

The Seven C's of communication:

Clarity: Ensure your message is clear and easily understood.

Conciseness: Be brief and to the point. Eliminate unnecessary words to keep the message focused.

Concreteness: Use specific facts and figures to support your message. Avoid vague statements.

Correctness: Ensure your message is grammatically correct and free of errors. This enhances credibility.

Completeness: Provide all necessary information so the audience can understand and act on your message.

Consideration: Tailor your message to the audience's perspective and needs. Show empathy and respect.

Courteousness: Communicate in a polite and respectful manner.

Types of Tones:

- Motivating.
- Informative.
- soft tone.
- Humorous.
- Respectful.
- Formal Tone.
- Informal Tone.
- Factual Tone.
- Directive Tone- Author /Judgemental.
- Assertive Tone- to the point /not rude/ control anger/minimise conflict/ express the point.
- Friendly Tone.
- Questioning Tone.
- Conversational Tone.

Ego: Ego can refer to a person's sense of self, or their perception of their identity. It can also refer to a person's confidence and resilience in the face of challenges.

Healthy Ego: A healthy ego means having confidence, self-respect, and understanding your own value without devaluing others.

Unhealthy Ego: An unhealthy ego leads to arrogance, entitlement, and the inability to accept criticism or failure.

Importance of prioritizing: Prioritization is an important soft skill that helps people allocate their time, energy, and resources wisely. It can help people focus on the most important tasks and goals, and can improve productivity, time management, and stress reduction.

Here are some ways that prioritization skills can be important in the workplace:

Strategic decision-making:

Prioritization skills can help people make strategic decisions and weigh up options objectively.

Workload management:

Prioritization skills can help people manage their workloads and keep up with their tasks.

Meeting deadlines:

Effective time management can help people meet deadlines and achieve their goals.

Five dimensions of personality:

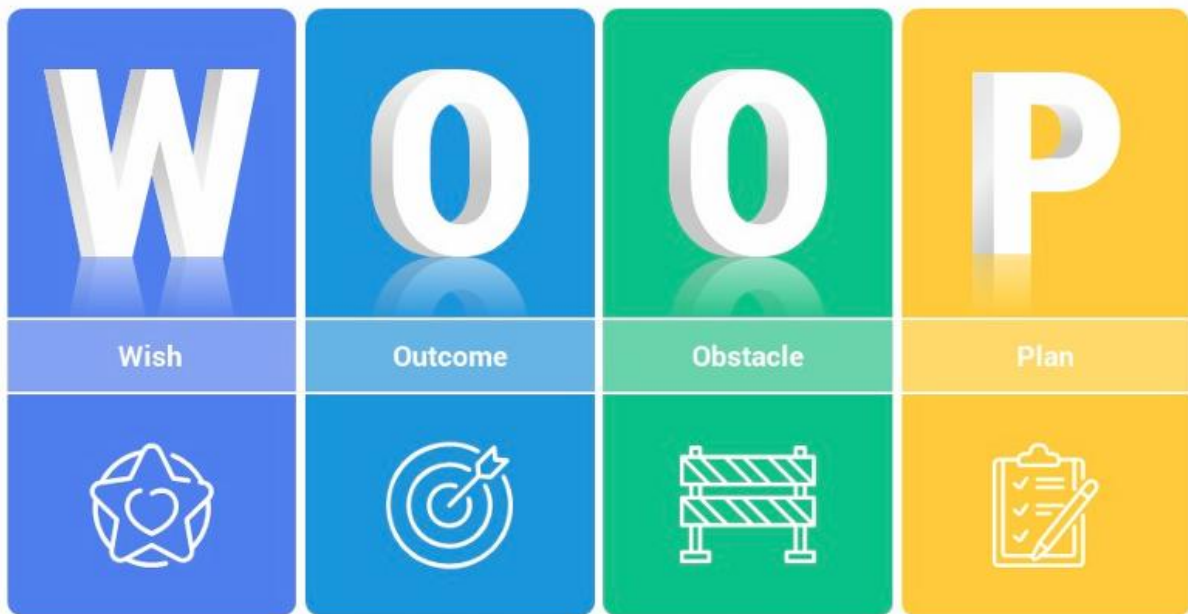

Openness: Openness is how open-minded, imaginative, creative and insightful a person is or can be. More open-minded people tend to prefer variety, seek new experiences and are curious and perceptive to their environment.

Conscientiousness: Conscientiousness is a personality trait that describes someone who is responsible, careful, and diligent. Conscientious people are often organized, self-disciplined, and detail-oriented. They are also known for being hard-working and reliable.

Extraversion: Extraversion is a personality trait that describes how outgoing, sociable, and assertive someone is. It's characterized by a tendency to seek gratification from outside the self, and to gain energy from spending time with others.

Agreeableness: Agreeableness is a personality trait that describes a person's ability to put others needs before their own. Being empathetic and finding pleasure in helping others and working with people who need more help is a particular strength of highly agreeable individuals.

Neuroticism: Neuroticism is a personality trait characterized by a tendency to experience negative emotions such as anxiety, depression, and irritability. People high in neuroticism are more likely to feel stressed and overwhelmed by everyday situations.

Time management technique:

Wish: What is your desire or goal?

Outcome: What would be the best result if you achieved that wish?

Obstacle: What internal or external barriers might prevent you from achieving this?

Plan: What steps will you take to overcome the obstacles?

TIME MANAGEMENT:

The Planner: Planner encompass your ability to organise tasks efficiently, set realistic goals and create strategic plans to achieve them.

The Procrastinator: A procrastinator is someone who delays or puts off tasks, decisions, or actions that should be done in a timely manner.

The Prioritizer: Organizational skills are a soft skill that involves prioritizing tasks based on their importance and urgency. People with strong organizational skills can: Manage multiple tasks and priorities, Be efficient, Meet deadlines, Maximize productivity, and Achieve business goals.

The Multitasker: A multitasker is someone who can manage multiple tasks at the same time while still being efficient and accurate.

The Delegator: A delegator is someone who assigns tasks or responsibilities to others.

The Eisenhower Decision Matrix

Pomodoro Technique

- 1 Decide what task you need to complete
- 2 Set the timer for 25 minutes
- 3 Work on your task until the timer rings
- 4 Take a short, 5 minute break

Repeat 4 times

Take a longer,
15-30 minute break

Intervals vs. Fixed Blocks: Pomodoro divides work into fixed intervals, while time blocking schedules specific periods for tasks.

Breaks: Pomodoro includes mandatory short breaks, while time blocking allows for customizable break times.

Focus vs. Flexibility: Pomodoro emphasizes intense focus with regular breaks, whereas time blocking focuses on scheduling and flexibility in managing time.

Culture shock:

When an individual leaves the comfort of their home and familiar surroundings and moves to an unfamiliar environment, adjustment period can be fairly intense, particularly if the two locations are completely different, such as going from a small rural area to a large metropolis or moving to another country.

SYMPTOMS:

● Being homesick ● Feeling helpless ● Feeling isolated ● Disorientation- lack of clarity (accident/death) ● Lack of concentration ● Irritability ● Sadness ● Sleep or eating disturbances ● Paranoia-characterized by intense and irrational feelings of suspicion, mistrust, or fear.

Suspicion: The belief that others are watching, plotting, or being hostile toward them.

Distrust: A deep mistrust of people, even those who are close or harmless.

Delusions: In severe cases, paranoid individuals may develop false beliefs that seem very real to them.

Bad listener VS Good listener:

A bad listener	A good listener
is easily distracted	fights distractions
daydreams	makes an effort to focus
fakes attention	uses body language to show attention
tunes out dry subjects	Considers the facts and data and asks, "What's in this for me?"
tunes out if delivery is poor	judges content over delivery
tends to challenge the speaker	interrupts only to clarify; gives speaker a chance

Hard VS Soft skills:

Aspect	Hard skills	Soft skills
Definition	Specific, teachable abilities that can be learned through education, training, or experience.	Personal habits and traits that shape how you work, on your own and with others.
Examples	Programming languages, software proficiency, accounting, foreign languages, medical procedures.	Communication, teamwork, leadership, problem-solving, time management, critical thinking.
How they are learned	Taught in schools, universities, and vocational training programs; learned through on-the-job training and mentorship.	Developed through life experiences, personal relationships, and self-reflection.
How they are used	To perform specific tasks and achieve specific goals.	To interact with others and create a positive and productive work environment.
Why they are important	Hard skills are essential for performing many jobs and advancing in your career.	Soft skills are essential for working effectively with others and achieving your professional goals.

Short VS Long Terms Goals:

	Short Term Goals	Long Term Goals
Strategy	Short-term goals are usually tied to your current performance and situation.	Long-term goals are highly tied to your mission and strategic vision for your life and career.
Number	You can have several short-term goals in multiple categories running simultaneously.	You will likely have a limited number of long-term goals in your life.
Timeline	Short-term goals are likely measured by weeks, months, or quarters.	Long-term goals can be measured by years and may have an undefined timeline.
Difficulty	It is much easier to achieve short-term goals because you can easily see progress.	Long-term goals are difficult and require patience as there is no immediate obvious payoff.
Flexibility	Because short-term goals have clearer and closer deadlines, they're fairly inflexible.	Because long-term goals have a broader timeline, they are easily impacted by life circumstances or changing passions.

Positive attitude: Positive attitude means being optimistic about situations, interactions, and yourself.

Negative attitude: A mindset marked by pessimism, criticism, and a focus on obstacles rather than opportunities.

Positive thinking: Positive thinking is a way of processing information with an optimistic outlook.

Features of positive thinking: That involves having an optimistic outlook and being resilient, adaptable, and solution-oriented. People with a positive attitude can:

- 1.Motivate others: They can inspire others and help ensure tasks are completed on time.
- 2.Foster collaboration: They can play well with others and know how to lead and follow.
- 3.Build strong relationships: They can handle situations appropriately and communicate effectively.
- 4.Practice gratitude: They focus on the blessings in their life, such as their family, friends, and past successes.

Problem solving:

Steps:

- 1.Analyze.
- 2.Understand everyone interest.
- 3.List of possible solutions.
- 4.Evaluating the options.
- 5.Selection of options.
- 6.Documenting the argument.
- 7.Agree on monitoring and valuation.

Decision making process:

- 1.Info gathering.
- 2.Analyzing the facts.
- 3.Develop an alternate situation.
- 4.Deciding the best course of action.
- 5.Converting decision into effective action.
- 6.Following up.

Difference between dreams and goals:

Goals And Dreams

No.	Goals	Dreams
1	Are achievable future plans	Are our wishes and desires we want in life
2	Are intentions and need hardwork to achieve it	Are free and can never become goals
3	Are actions	Are thoughts
4	Require clarity of thoughts to know the what, how and when	Are unconscious and based on latent wishes
5	Are concrete and tangible measured by performance	Are ambiguous, nebulous and not specific
6	Have specific objectives	Are subjective as it revolves around our passions
7	Are realistic and needs to follow a structure	Are fantasies and at times, unrealistic too
8	Have an end	Can be never ending as it is without a boundary

Types of goal setting:

1.Long term goals:

a)Lifetime goals: Major goal you want to accomplish through out life.

b)Capstone goals: Goals that you accomplish first before the life time goals.

2.Short term goals:

a)Foundation goals: The goal which are before the capstone goals.

b)Provisonal goals: This type of goal which is accomplish in less than month.

Why does goal setting fails:

- 1.Fear of success/failure.
- 2.Lack of understanding about the goal setting process.
- 3.Lack of commitment towards the goals.
- 4.Having too many goals.
- 5.Lack of motivation for a change.
- 6.Feeling unworthy of the end result.
- 7."Smart" technique.

Types of body languages and gestures:

Body Languages:

- 1.Head.
- 2.Facial expressions.
- 3.Tone of voice: 1.Pitch of your voice.
2.Loudness.
3.Breathing.

Gestures:

- 1.Emblem.
- 2.Beat gestures.
- 3.Affect display.
- 4.Postures: 1.Inactive postures.
2.Active postures: 1.Static Ex:Kneeling, sitting, standing.
2.Dynamic Ex:Overhyped energy, running.

Types of etiquette:

1. Personal etiquette: Personal etiquette refers to the customary code of polite behavior in society, including manners, courtesy, and respect for others in personal interactions.

2. Social etiquette: Social etiquette is a set of socially acceptable behaviors that help people interact with others in a respectful and comfortable way.

3. Business meeting etiquette: Business meeting etiquette is the standard of behavior and communication expected in a professional setting during a meeting.

4. Eating etiquette: In the realm of dining, etiquette refers to proper manners and behavior in a formal dining situation. Table manners play an important part in making a favorable impression.

5. Interview etiquette: Interview etiquette is the way you behave, speak, and show empathy during a job interview. It's an unwritten code of conduct that can help you make a good impression and get hired.