

1.Human values: Human values are the principles, beliefs, and guidelines that people use to guide their daily lives. They are an important part of human nature and can help people live in harmony with others.

2.Natural acceptance: Natural acceptance in human values is the ability to understand oneself and accept the self, people, and environment without conditions. It is also the ability to determine what is right or wrong for oneself without external influences.

OR

It does not depend upon place. It does not depend upon our belief or past conditioning it always within us and save every time. It does not change age and time.

3.Self-acceptance: Self-acceptance is the act of accepting yourself and all your personality traits exactly as they are. You accept them no matter whether they are positive or negative. This includes your physical and mental attributes. Self-acceptance means recognizing that your value goes beyond your personal attributes and actions.

4.Self-exploration: Self-exploration allows individuals to gain clarity about their own identity and the principles they hold.

5.Ethics: Ethical values are a set of moral principles that apply to a specific group of people, professional field or form of human conduct. These relate to our personal behaviour with our fellow beings.

6.Harmony in myself: Harmony in human beings refers to a state of balance, peace, and coherence within individuals. It involves the integration of various aspects of a person's being, including their thoughts, emotions, values, and actions.

7.Ethical leadership: Ethical leadership is a style of leadership that involves making decisions and acting in a way that promotes the common good and is guided by ethical values and principles. Ethical leadership can help create positive organizational cultures and contribute to long-term growth.

8.Syllable: A syllable is a part of a word that contains a single vowel sound and that is pronounced as a unit. So, for example, 'book' has one syllable, and 'reading' has two syllables.

9.Right conduct: Right conduct involves acting in a way that is good and moral, and without ego or self-thought. It can be defined as the act of doing the right thing and causing the greatest good.

Importance of human values/ Explain some key points of human values:

1. One's attitude decides the quality of the person. Learning human values makes a person understand the attitudes and behaviours of the other person.
2. It helps you to gain some motivation to manage your work and make progress in the right way.
3. Human values help to tell our perception of the world around us.
4. By learning human values you can know which is right and wrong.
5. Learning human values makes one person understand other humans as well as his organization. Human values are an integral part of one's life.
6. Being a loyal person is also considered the best human value.
7. Helping is also considered an important human value. Helping a person at the right time is very important.
8. Possessing the clarity of what you want is your biggest value which helps you to build a strong foundation.
9. If you follow all the human values then you will gain self-respect.
10. Only if you have self-respect others will respect you.
11. Human values help to find what do you want in your life.
12. Human values help in decision making in important times.
13. Human values help a person to enjoy his life in a better way.

Five human values expected in all:

1. Right conduct: Right conduct involves acting in a way that is good and moral, and without ego or self-thought. It can be defined as the act of doing the right thing and causing the greatest good. Examples are modesty, self-reliance, self-respect, hygiene.
2. Social skills: Social skills are the abilities that allow people to communicate and interact with others in a healthy way. They include verbal and non-verbal communication, such as speech, facial expressions, gestures, and body language. Examples are good behaviour, good manners, environment.
3. Etiquette skill: Etiquette skills are a set of norms and principles that guide polite behaviour in society. These skills are based on human values such as respect, consideration, and honesty. Etiquette skills help people to be polite and courteous in social interactions, which can contribute to a harmonious society. Examples are courage, efficiency, initiative, punctuality, ownership.
4. Peace: Peace means societal friendship and harmony in the absence of hostility and violence. Examples are patience, equality, focus, humanity, optimism, self-confidence, self-control, self-esteem.
5. Truth: Truth is a human value that is independent of personal desires, interests, and opinions. It is a value that has been sought throughout history. Examples are accuracy, to be fair enough, honesty, justice, quest for knowledge, determination.

How does natural acceptance play role in self-exploration:

1.Natural acceptance is a mechanism of self-exploration that helps people understand themselves and their values:

2.Self-exploration: A process of investigating oneself to understand what is valuable and desirable. It involves asking questions about one's goals, desires, and how to actualize them.

3.Natural acceptance: The ability to determine what is right or wrong for oneself without external influences. It is a process of unconditional and total acceptance of the self, people, and environment.

a)Validate proposals: Natural acceptance helps people validate proposals based on their own understanding.

b)Become self-referential: Natural acceptance helps people become self-referential, which contributes to their self-confidence.

c)Understand human values: Natural acceptance helps people understand human values by discovering them within themselves.

d)Develop a holistic perspective: Natural acceptance helps people develop a holistic perspective about themselves, their family, society, and nature.

Self-exploration can lead to a right understanding of existence, which includes understanding harmony and relationships.

What is the process of self-exploration:

Self-exploration is the process to find out what is valuable to me by investigating within myself, what is right for me, true for me, has to be judged within myself. Through self-exploration we get the value of ourself. The process of self-exploration is as follows:

- Don't assume it to be true immediately, nor reject it without proper exploration.
- Verify it in your own right, on the basis of it being naturally acceptable to you,
- Not just on the basis of scriptures
- Not on the basis of equipment/instrument data
- Not on the basis of the assertion by other human beings.

Therefore, it is essential to carefully ponder over these on your own right. Neither accept these as true immediately nor reject them prematurely without proper exploration. Don't just accept / reject these only on the basis of the following.

Role of Indian culture and how does it promote human values:

Indian culture is rich and diverse, and it promotes human values in many ways, including:

- 1.Tolerance: Indian culture teaches people to be tolerant of others.
- 2.Respect: Indian culture emphasizes respect for elders and family unity.
- 3.Honesty: Indian culture values honesty.
- 4.Hard work: Indian culture values hard work.
- 5.Education: Indian culture emphasizes education, both formal and informal.
- 6.Spiritual values: Indian culture is based on ancient Vedic traditions and philosophy that emphasize spiritual values like unity, non-violence, and truth.
- 7.Belief in karma and dharma: Indian culture is characterized by shared values like belief in karma and dharma.
- 8.Kindness and generosity: Indian culture teaches people kindness and generosity.

Indian culture is one of the oldest cultures in the world that has survived for thousands of years. It is based on ancient Vedic traditions and philosophy that emphasize spiritual values like unity, non-violence, and truth.

Advantages of self-exploration:

Self-exploration is important in human values because it helps people understand themselves and their values, which can lead to a number of benefits:

- 1.Improved self-esteem: Self-exploration can help people accept who they are and why they do what they do, which can boost their self-esteem.
- 2.Better communication: Self-exploration can help people communicate more clearly and intentionally.
- 3.Stronger relationships: Self-exploration can help people build stronger relationships.
- 4.Better decision-making: Self-exploration can help people make better decisions by aligning their actions with their core values.
- 5.Greater self-awareness: Self-exploration can increase self-awareness, which is the ability to recognize how we take up space and evaluate ourselves.
- 6.Personal growth: Self-exploration can be a powerful tool for personal growth and development.
- 7.More fulfilling life: Self-exploration can help people live more fulfilling lives.

Prominent leader values:

1. Integrity: A leader with integrity is honest and has moral principles. They act in accordance with their words, own their mistakes, and don't blame their team.
2. Respect: Respect is a leader's most valuable quality because it's the gateway to trust and inspiration.
3. Honesty: A leader who is honest and transparent in all aspects of their role earns the trust and respect of their team.
4. Courage: Courage involves knowing something scares you but doing it anyway.
5. Humility: Humble leaders are more likable because they don't shy away from criticism. They inspire employees to be humble and admit mistakes.
6. Vision: Leaders have the important responsibility of creating and maintaining the organizational vision.
7. Communication: Communication is the foundation of any relationship. In a work setting, centering communication as a core leadership value manifests in many ways.

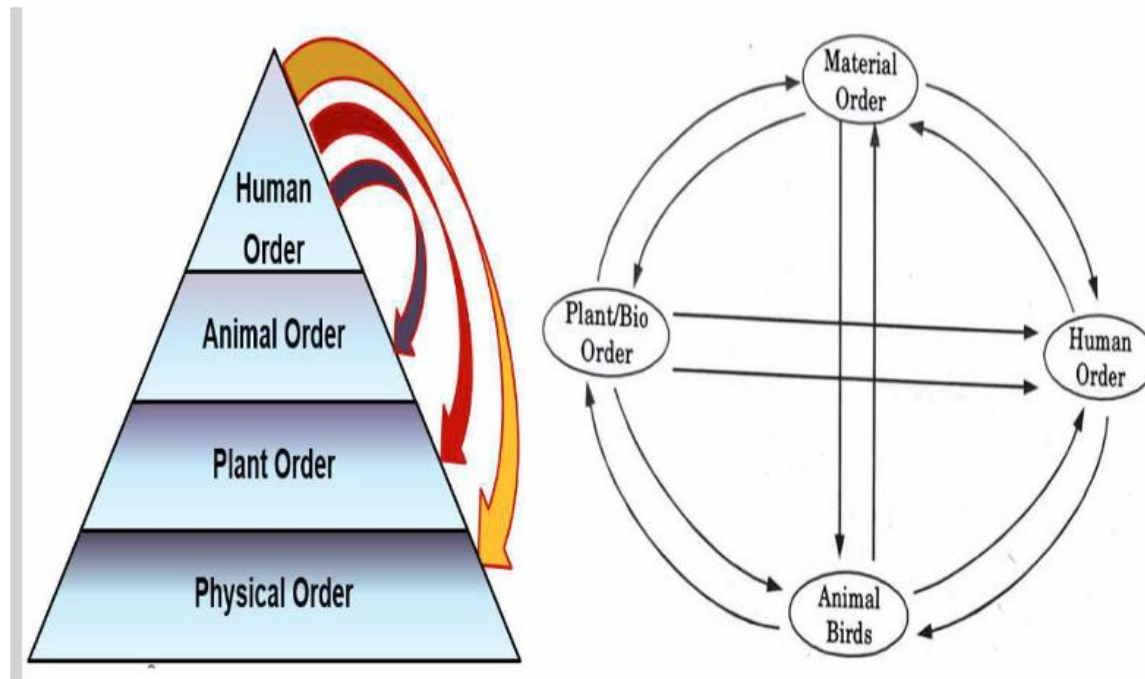

Ways “Harmony in myself” contribute to a better life:

Harmony within oneself can contribute to a better life in human values in several ways, including:

1. Physical health: Physical health is a state of well-being that involves how well the body functions and how a person feels, moves, and grows. It's also about being able to do daily activities without physical limitations.
2. Mental wellbeing: Mental well-being is a state of being where a person can cope with life's stresses, contribute to society, and realize their potential.
3. Balanced lifestyle: Balanced living means achieving optimal health in all aspects of your life: relationships, work, fitness, health, and emotional happiness. We all get so caught up in work and family responsibilities, that we forget to make time for ourselves.
4. Inner happiness: When you are in a state of harmony within, you feel happy because that state is naturally acceptable to you.
5. Social service: Participating in social service activities can make you happy and give happiness to others.
6. Self-awareness: Being aware of your thoughts, emotions, behaviors, values, strengths, and areas for growth can help you identify and address inner conflicts.
7. Self-exploration: Self-exploration can lead to self-improvement and self-evolution, which can help you become more in harmony within yourself.

Four orders of nature:

1. Material order consists of things like air, water, soil and so on.
2. Plant order comprises trees, plants, insects, etc.
3. Animal order includes birds and animals.
4. Human order denotes human beings.

5. Material Order, Plant Order, Animal Order, Human Order:

When we look at the connectedness of the three orders with human beings, we find that each of these orders is fulfilling to the human order. We humans also have a natural acceptance to be mutually fulfilling to these three orders.

a) The Material Order helps the Human Order by providing soil, minerals, metals, oxygen etc. but Human beings in return are polluting the Material Order and depleting the fossil fuels.

b) The Plant order helps the Human order by providing food, oxygen and by absorbing Carbon dioxide. In return, the Human beings are destroying forests and many species of plants and herbs.

c) The Animal order provides the Human order with food, wool, leather, means of labour and transport etc.

What types of lesson is given by nature:

Nature can teach us many lessons about human values, including:

1. Patience: Nature's cycles of growth and change teach us that growth and transformation take time, nurturing, and perseverance.
2. Balance: Nature can teach us how to create a balanced lifestyle by observing how animals and plants coexist in harmony.
3. Resilience: Nature's ability to bounce back and develop resilient systems can teach us to be resilient.
4. Adaptation: Adaptation is essential to survival in nature, but most human-made systems don't adapt.
5. Creativity: Creativity is embedded in every aspect of nature.
6. Self-sufficiency: Nature is self-sufficient yet selfless.
7. Appreciation: Nature can teach us to appreciate the beauty of the present moment.
8. Mindfulness: Nature can teach us to be mindful of our actions and their impact on the world around us.

Explain etiquette:

1. Etiquette skills are a set of norms and principles that guide polite behaviour in society.
2. These skills are based on human values such as respect, consideration, and honesty.
3. Etiquette skills help people to be polite and courteous in social interactions, which can contribute to a harmonious society.

.....

Issue related to vulnerable section of society which includes elders, child labor, and disabled people: